COMMENTS:-

I note there will be an additional 200 houses, and with Cottenham being largely inaccessible by public transport in as much it takes about 1 hour to reach the city centre by bus. This means the only way new residents will be able to go about their business will be by car. It is highly likely that each new property will be occupied by at least one couple, both of which will be working to pay the mortgage leading to the need of both having a car each, adding something in the order of 400 cars to our narrow roads.

The distance of the development from the village centre would require the residence to travel into the village for their groceries, the distance being too great to hand carry. The lack of parking will drive both new and existing residence out of Cottenham to shop elsewhere. -

What Plans have been made to ensure that Cottenham can sustain the increase in population without detriment to the local facilities?

What plans have been made to support the additional traffic and not make rush-hour congestion in Histon worse than it already is
