Moving the existing site to Foxton would encourage huge trucks to go through Foxton village - which means they would have to navigate through the sharp bend in the road at the vicarage. Existing smaller vehicles can take up 2/3rds of the road as they make their way round - as this is a 'blind' corner, one can only foresee a major accident occurring.
Why would you move these trucks further away from the A505 which is the main artery to the M.11 and A.14
