I am very concerned that the proposed access route to the new station does not give enough thought to the residents of Cody, Kirby and Capper Road and the impact from additional traffic, reduction in green spaces, and associated visual and noise pollution. The noise barrier/bund is noted as being required until alternative routes to the station are in place and/or land to the south of the access road is developed. I would suggest that the barrier should be as thorough as possible and a permanent fixture to obscure view of the new road and reduce noise from construction and traffic to the station.

It seems that a main access route from the A10 rather than through the village would be far superior than using residential areas for a main thoroughfare. However, until access from the A10 is possible, movement of the access road parallel to Capper Road further to the north would benefit residents, reducing noise and visual pollution for residents who currently enjoy countryside views to the North.
